PARLIAMENTARY PANEL SURVEY - MPs - June 2013

The number of people in a cohabiting relationship (unmarried and living together) stands at more than 5.3 million. According to figures from the Office for National Statistics, this figure has almost doubled in the past two decades from an estimated 2.7 million in 1992.

Q1: To what extent, if at all, do you agree or disagree with each of the following statements

Ensuring that unmarried cohabiting couples who are separating have some degree of financial protection will reduce the burden on the welfare system
